

The Department of Mathematics, Statistics, and Computer Science at Marquette University, in cooperation with the Milwaukee Mathematics Partnership and John Wiley Publishing

would like to invite you to a

Colloquium Event
featuring Deborah Hughes-Hallett

in a one-day seminar to be held in the Department of Mathematics, Statistics and Computer Science at Marquette University.

Friday, October 14, 2005

All events will be held in Cudahy Hall on the campus of Marquette University, 1313 W.
Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee.

Dr. Hughes-Hallett will teach a demonstration calculus lesson, lead a question-and-answer session at a luncheon following the lesson, and conduct a colloquium on the topic of Calculus Teaching from a Reform Perspective.

Schedule of Events

11:00 am: Deborah Hughes-Hallett will conduct a lesson for Calculus 1 students (Cudahy 001)

12:00 pm: Lunch with Q & A regarding the lecture (Cudahy 401)

01:30 pm: WileyPlus presentation (Cudahy 401)

02:30 pm: Pre-Colloquium refreshments (Faculty Lounge, Cudahy 342)

03:00 pm: Colloquium (Cudahy 401)

04:00 pm: Post-Colloquium refreshments (Faculty Lounge, Cudahy 342)

Dr. Hughes-Hallett, a pioneer in the Calculus reform movement in the United States, is an Adjunct Professor of Public Policy in the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University and Professor of Mathematics at the University of Arizona.

RSVP to Jack Moyer for the demonstration lesson, the lunch,
and/or the colloquium.

Don't forget to RSVP by 10/7/05 to:

Dr. Jack Moyer, 288-5299