BECOMING AN OSHER MEMBER

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute is a membership organization for adults 50 and over who understand that quality of life is enhanced through learning. You need not be an alumnus/alumna of UWM in order to join. Osher is the perfect way to expand your knowledge while joining more than 900 like-minded, active, older adults.

Osher Member Benefits

- Attend short courses taught by UWM faculty, Osher members and other noted experts that explore a variety of thought-provoking topics
- Participate in "Go Explore" excursions to some of the most interesting places in the community
- Enroll in peer-directed Special Interest Groups focused on a variety of subjects
- Socialize with others who love learning
- Enjoy the bi-monthly newsletter highlighting future activities and events of interest
- Obtain a complimentary library card for the UWM Golda Meir Library
- Receive a membership directory

Become a Member

You must be a member of the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at UWM to register for programs. If you have not joined Osher or renewed your membership, you may do so by including the membership fee with the registration form on page 35 or visit our website sce-osopher.uwm.edu to renew/join. To verify your membership status, call the Osher office at 414-227-3321.

Annual membership is $40 per person. For couples or individuals living at the same address and requesting only one copy of mailed information, dues are $35 per person (A couple constitutes as two people living in the same household, whether married, siblings or partners).

Kathy Johnson “Secular Humanism: An Alternate World View” This session provides participants with information about nontheistic world views in general and in secular humanism in particular, including definitions and descriptions of various nontheistic world views, the history of these views and the resources for obtaining more information. Kathy Johnson earned her B.S.N. from UWM and is a retired registered nurse with special interests in home health and hospice, including telephone follow-up and education for people with congestive heart failure. She is a member of the American Humanist Association.

Mitch Teich “Behind the Scenes at a Public Radio Talk Show” Calling on more than 20 years in radio, Mitch provides insights into how a public radio talk show comes together, discusses some of the more interesting interviews and stories he’s covered, and shares his one corner of radio history, from the days of DX-ing (listening to far-away AM radio stations), to the realities of small-town radio, to producing compelling feature stories and interviews. Mitch Teich has been executive producer of “Lake Effect” at WUWM Milwaukee Public Radio since the show’s inception in 2006. As co-host of the program, he’s conducted thousands of interviews with local and national newsmakers, authors, scientists, musicians and other noteworthy people. His feature stories have been heard on national programs such as NPR’s “Morning Edition,” “All Things Considered,” and “Only a Game.”

Steve Basson “A Day in the Life of an Orchestral Musician” Stephen Basson will discuss the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra’s history and give insight into what it was like to be a musician in a top tier orchestra. Stephen Basson was the principal bassoonist for the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra for more than 30 years. He has been an advocate for the MSO and classical music for many years, sharing his love of music with others through classes he continues to host in his retirement.

John Roach “Horicon Marsh and Other Images” John Roach shares his full time passion for photography in discussing images he took during Osher’s Go Explore to Horicon Marsh, as well as images of Milwaukee. When he is not taking pictures, he enjoys traveling and writing. He is a retired hospital director.
Living With Optimism in a Chaotic World

Optimistic people see the world with eyes of hope. No matter how awful the world around them is, they see beauty and goodness arising from the chaos. In this three-session course, Dale Olen helps us strengthen our optimistic vision as he shows us many positive activities, events and projects happening here and worldwide. There is reason to feel hope for the future of Earth and the next seven generations of people, plants and animals. By the end of this course, Dale hopes we will agree with him that humans can eventually live with one another and with Earth in harmony and peace.

Presenter

Dr. Dale Olen is a social/ecological psychologist studying the Earth-human relationship and how the human species can live in harmony with planet Earth. Since retiring in 2003, he has been active in environmental groups working mostly on water issues. He directs SWAN (Senior Water Advocates Network) and writes an Earth-human blog as well as an Earth Wisdom website.

Italian Food Culture: A Historical Glance

Investigate the history of Italian eating traditions that unite the practices of the Italian regions as well as those customs that have distinguished regional differences from the Etruscan and Roman times to the present. Key concepts such as the production and consumption of food, as well as its significance as a survival and cultural element will be discussed in order to understand notions of national, regional, class and individual identities. The course concludes with lunch after the last class at Carini’s, a local Italian restaurant. Registrants will be contacted prior to the start of the course for their menu selections.

Presenter

SimoneTTa Milli Konewko is assistant professor in the Department of French, Italian, and Comparative Literature at the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee. Her current research interests include: twentieth century Italian literature and film, Holocaust studies, theories of emotions, and food studies. Her articles have appeared in “Forum Italicum,” “Rivista di Studi Italiani,” and “Holocaust and Modernity.” She has presented her work at international conferences in Europe as well as in the USA.

Location: UWM Hefter Conference Center, 3271 N. Lake Drive, Milwaukee
Fee: $30 (Lunch included)
Program No. SPRI:10

Poetry: The What, the Why and the How

Our first engagement with a poem usually concerns the what and the why questions: what is the poet’s subject, and why has he/she chosen to write about it-topic and theme. But beyond the what and why is the how question. How does the poet use poetical structures and techniques, words, images and metaphors to manifest his/her intent? Closer examination of these devices adds immeasurable intellectual and emotional depth to our response to the poem, in the same way that knowing musical notation and structures broadens one’s understanding of music.

Presenter

John Angelos has lectured on literature at Whitefish Bay High School, UWM School of Continuing Education, Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at UWM and the Milwaukee Shakespeare Company. Due to its popularity during the Fall 2012 semester, this course is being offered a second time. This session is not a continuation of the previous one; it will cover the same material as before.

Nancy Burns "Vision Health International" Learn about the difference that Vision Health International has made in the lives of the people it has served and those that assist the organization. Nancy Burns has been a public health nurse with the City of Milwaukee Health Department for more than 20 years. She serves on the board of Vision Health International and has worked with the organization for 25 years in a variety of ways, including the coordinating and leading of volunteer projects.

Gail Epping Overholt "Wherever You Live, Whoever You Are, Wetlands Affect Your Life!" Understand the importance of wetlands—their community, their residents and their value to us all. Learn about their challenges and their place in Wisconsin history. Gail has been with the UW-Extension as a natural resources educator in southeastern Wisconsin since 2006. Her expertise includes water resources, forestry, citizen engagement and citizen-based monitoring programs, as well as the facilitation, evaluation, design and delivery of natural resources outreach programs and materials.

Corey Zetts “Milwaukee’s Menomonee Valley” This session provides a brief overview of the Menomonee Valley, from settlement to near abandonment to its emergence as a leader in sustainable development and a model for communities around the country. Corey Zetts is the associate director of Menomonee Valley Partners, a public-private partnership established in 1999 to spearhead the revitalization of Milwaukee’s Menomonee Valley. She has worked for Menomonee Valley Partners for seven years, and in that time has worked to recruit new businesses, build new infrastructure, develop the Hank Aaron State Trail and open a branch of the Urban Ecology Center.

Mark Verhagen “‘Rain Forests’ in Our Backyard” Most people are not aware that our oak savannas were at one time found throughout most of southern Wisconsin. Today, oak savanna and related natural communities are as rare as some types of rain forest. Mark Verhagen’s talk starts with a brief history of Wisconsin’s hidden nature and where it all went. Mark brings 20 years of experience in the field of natural areas management and has a B.S. in wildlife ecology from UW-Madison. He has worked at Wehr Nature Center for 11 years and is involved in restoring and managing the many natural communities at the center, as well as boardwalk construction, trail maintenance, consultation, outreach, native plant sales and field trip coordination.
Exploring the World of Religion

What is Religion? What does it do for us? What is its purpose? What is the difference between Western and Eastern religions? These questions and others will be addressed while presenting an overview of Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism, Sikhism and Voodoo.

Presenter

James Pietrusz is a retired high school English teacher who taught in Milwaukee Public Schools for over 30 years. One of his favorite courses was “World Literature,” which covered themes from many cultures, from the ancient past to the present.

Practical Philosophy

Philosophy, for many of the ancient thinkers, was a highly practical pursuit. In fact, it was often regarded as a kind of therapy through which humans could correct mistaken views of the world and of themselves, and engage in exercises that would result in a greater sense of well-being and positive community involvement. We will consider three such views: Socrates, Buddha, and Epictetus (a Stoic) and bring their insights into dialogue with our lives now.

Presenter

Carolyn Sweers earned a master’s degree in philosophy from Boston University and for 25 years taught philosophy and history courses at New Trier High School in Winnetka, Illinois. After retiring in 1994, Carolyn continued to teach in older adult education programs in northern Illinois and now in Milwaukee.

Taking the Scare Out of Medicare: For Those Nearing Medicare Age, or Those Confused by All the Changes

Medicare A, B, C and D: When and how do you enroll? What does each part cover? How do you get help with the costs? How do you decide between a Medicare Supplement or Medicare Advantage Plan, or keeping any retiree coverage you may have? This course addresses these questions, as well as how to use the various websites and comparison tools to manage your Medicare.

Presenter

Margaret Nugent, Ph.D., has worked in the Medicare field for over seven years, beginning with the start of Medicare Part D. As the medicare trainer and counselor for the Greater Wisconsin Agency on Aging Resources, Inc., she prepares resources and provides trainings to benefit specialists and other professionals statewide. She recently finished several years coordinating two grants totaling $2 million to fund outreach to Medicare beneficiaries in Wisconsin. The program helped over 21,000 older or disabled adults to apply for help paying their Medicare costs, resulting in an estimated savings of over $57 million a year for these individuals. Margaret is a native Milwaukeean who received her B.A. in journalism and political science at Marquette University, her master’s and Ph.D. in politics from Princeton University, and also a master’s in pastoral studies from St. Francis Seminary.

Adventures in History: Life in America in the 1920's
The '20s were a dynamic, but contradictory decade—a time of rapid change and amazing technological innovation. Through the lens of political, social, and cultural history, we’ll take a lively look at the era. We’ll discuss the presidential leadership of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. We’ll consider the remarkable cultural creativity of the ‘20s and look at the lives and times of famous figures in American life from Henry Ford to Charles Lindbergh to Babe Ruth to Irving Berlin to Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald—and all that jazz!

Presenter
Jo McReynolds-Bloczowiak is a lecturer, speaker, writer and community educator who makes history come alive.

3 Tuesdays: Apr. 2, 9, 16, 2:30-3:45pm
Location: UWM Hefter Conference Center, 3271 N. Lake Drive, Milwaukee
Fee: $15

Jane Austen’s “Mansfield Park”
Not as well-known nor as well-loved as “Pride and Prejudice,” “Mansfield Park” shows us a more somber Jane Austen. With a heroine far less witty than Elizabeth Bennet and a hero neither so rich nor so handsome as Mr. Darcy, Mansfield Park presents a bleaker picture of characters trying to fulfill personal desires within societal limitations. Whether the protagonists of “Mansfield Park” overcome those limitations remains a question for Austen critics and is one of questions tackled in this four-week conversation about the novel.

Presenter
Marilyn Johnson worked as a municipal bond trader for 20 years. After leaving the financial industry, she worked with her husband to amass a large collection of historic photographs, the bulk of which is now part of the Milwaukee County Historical Society’s photo archive, and delivered a series of photo-lectures entitled “Remembering Milwaukee.” She is an avid reader of 19th century fiction and has led discussion groups on the works of Jane Austen and George Eliot.

4 Wednesdays: Apr. 3, 10, 17, 24, 1-2:15pm
Location: UWM Hefter Conference Center, 3271 N. Lake Drive, Milwaukee

How Do Robots Think?
Robots and robotic systems include computers to enable them to accomplish their missions. In science fiction projections of the future, robots interact, for better or worse, on an almost equal intelligence level with humans. This class explores some of the applications of robot “thought” that are being applied at the present. This ranges from simple, relatively dumb robots to those that might be said to be “intelligent.” Machine intelligence concepts such as genetic algorithms, neural networks, and expert systems will be discussed and illustrated. Example robots will be used, with class participation to test some of the concepts. This is not a class requiring a mathematics degree but one for people who like to think about thinking.

Presenter
Dennis Miller has a B.S. and M.S. in electrical engineering. He worked at Johnson Controls for 35 years as a research engineer and as a manager in research, product development and software testing. He retired in 2007 and since then has worked on the development of mobile robots both for fun and interest as a basis for teaching technology to middle and high school students. Dennis teaches courses on computer aided design, robotics, software and related topics through the Marquette University Engineering Outreach Program. He has been and continues to be a mentor for FIRST Robotics Competition teams.

Presenters
John Angelos “The Kiss of the Spider Woman (The Musical)” “The Kiss of the Spider Woman” is one of the rare literary works that has made a successful transition from novel to play to film to musical. Learn the history of the novel’s transition and the forthcoming musical production at Dale Gutzmann’s Off the Wall Theatre. John Angelos has taught literature at the high school and university levels, lectured for Milwaukee Shakespeare Company, and has taught a number of Osher courses.
Broadcasting's First Decade: 1920–29

At the beginning of the 1920’s, broadcasting was basically a disorganized novelty. By the end of the 1920’s, broadcasting was an industry with its basic-and still current-bone structure firmly in place: entertainment oriented, dominated by networks, financed by advertising and regulated by the federal government. How did so much happen in a relatively brief period of time?

Presenter

Earl Grow, professor emeritus, taught at UWM for 30+ years and created the “History of Broadcasting” course. Much of his materials are from his personal collection of broadcasting history materials.

4 Wednesdays: Apr. 24, May 1, 8, 15, 10-11:15am
Location: UWM Hefter Conference Center, 3271 N. Lake Drive, Milwaukee

Bogart Films

Humphrey Bogart: He’s #1 on the American Film Industry’s list of “Legends of Film.” View and study his films during this five week course. Because so many of his major films are regularly presented on TV film channels, we’ll look at several that are not as frequently shown: “Petrified Forest,” “Big Sleep,” “Treasure of Sierra Madre,” “Caine Mutiny,” and “African Queen.” These selections also demonstrate the variety of character types Bogart played and that earned him the “Legend” honor.

Presenter

Terry Rozga, past president of Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at UWM, is professor emeritus of communication arts, UW-Waukesha, and has taught courses about film.

“King Lear,” A Powerful 1605-Modernist Tragedy with Two Tragic Plots

After reading “Hamlet,” a rather wild Romantic play where we saw a young prince find himself just before being killed, it should be challenging to read “King Lear,” a wide ranging 1605 Modernist tragedy about a rash old king who loses his realm, his family, his reason, and his favorite daughter, Cordelia, before dying of grief. But watch out, some have found Lear so painful that they have rewritten it to keep Lear and Cordelia alive to live happily ever after. Are you ready, brave Osherites, for the challenges of one of Shakespeare’s greatest tragedies? We certainly hope so.

Presenter

Bruce Stark, associate professor emeritus, taught undergraduates for over 40 years in France, Israel, India and UWM. He enjoys working with adults in Osher, as he did at Columbia, Cornell, Madison and in the Army.

A Half-Century of Paradox, America 1900-1945

Americans awakened near the dawn of the 20th century to new roles in industry, culture and diplomacy as the nation flexed its military muscles. The United States won two world wars, became the locomotive of the world’s economy, and produced innovative fiction, music and technology. It was a time of euphoria, tragedy, reason and chaos, when the light side of humanity battled the dark side almost to a draw. We conquered Hitler yet failed to cure the common cold. A man in a wheelchair won the presidency four times. We lost more workers to industrial accidents on the home front than men died in battle during the Second World War. The era opened on a surge of optimism and dissolved in a mushroom cloud over Hiroshima.

Murder in Wauwatosa:
The Mysterious Death of Buddy Schumacher

“Murder in Wauwatosa: The Mysterious Death of Buddy Schumacher” is Paul Hoffman’s first book, published in June 2012. It is a true story of one of the few unsolved murders committed in Wauwatosa, the killing of eight-year-old Arthur “Buddy” Schumacher Jr., son of a pharmaceutical supply salesman and grandson of one of the city’s key leaders in the early 20th century. An arrest was made, and a different person confessed, but no one was ever convicted.

Presenter

Paul Hoffman was born in Madison, Wisconsin and was raised in Wauwatosa. He is a 1981 graduate of Wauwatosa East High School and attended both the University of Wisconsin-Madison and UWM, graduating in 1985 with a bachelor’s degree in mass communications and a minor in English. His nearly 30-year career in journalism consists of working as a sports writer at the Milwaukee Sentinel; assistant sports editor at Pioneer Press newspapers in the Chicago area; sports editor and news editor in Shelbyville, Indiana; news editor in Columbus, Indiana; and special publications editor at the Daily Journal in Franklin, Indiana for the past 12 years. Paul is a member of the Wauwatosa, Milwaukee County and Wisconsin historical societies.

Buddhist Temples of Milwaukee:
Insights and Enlightenment

How do you practice Buddhism? Who are some Buddhist masters? What does a Buddhist temple look like? Get answers to these questions and many more on a tour of Milwaukee’s Buddhist temples. The program includes an evening lecture to introduce Buddhism and its practices. The following Saturday travel to the east side to learn about Zen meditation at a Zen center. Then visit a Tibetan Buddhist site to learn about an esoteric form of Buddhism that is growing in popularity. Travel to the south side to visit a Theravada Buddhist temple operated by the Lao community and a Mahayana temple operated by Vietnamese Buddhists. The day concludes with an exploration of Nichiren Buddhism at a Japanese Soka Gakkai center on the west side. Along the way we will enjoy fellowship at a fine Asian restaurant while dining on delicious Asian cuisine.

The Artistry of Conrad Schmitt Studios

The Conrad Schmitt Studios were founded in Milwaukee in 1889 by Conrad Schmitt, son of Bavarian immigrants. Preserving the past through comprehensive investigation, analysis and documentation is a vital component of the studio. They have conserved stained glass windows designed by famous artists such as Louis Comfort Tiffany and have restored theaters and religious and secular buildings designed by architects such as Louis Sullivan, Frank Lloyd Wright and many others. The studio also designs and creates art glass and interiors for buildings of architectural and historic significance throughout the country and abroad including basilicas, cathedrals, churches, theatres, train stations, universities and government buildings. The tour will offer a behind-the-scenes look at current projects that the studio is working on. Not well suited for those with limited mobility.

A Visit to Off the Wall Theatre:
“The Kiss of the Spider Woman”

Enjoy a special dress rehearsal performance of Kander and Ebb’s “The Kiss of the Spider Woman”. This is an award-winning Broadway musical that sweeps you from the confines of an Argentinian prison cell to the magic wonderland of the old Technicolor film musicals. Starring Sharon Rise as the film star goddess called upon to help Molina, the show’s protagonist, escape the harsh realities of prison life. This is a powerful piece of drama with a magnificent score by the composers of “Cabaret” and “Chicago.”
