Student Experiences and Perceptions

Students who are actively involved in their own learning and development are more likely to be successful in college. Colleges and universities offer students a wide variety of opportunities both inside and outside the classroom to become engaged with new ideas, people, and experiences. Institutions measure the effectiveness of these opportunities in a variety of ways to better understand what types of activities and programs students find the most helpful.

In addition, institutions participating in the VSA program measure student involvement on campus using one of four national surveys. Results from the one survey are reported for a common set of questions selected as part of VSA. Following are the selected results from the 2005-06 National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE). The questions have been grouped together in categories that are known to contribute to student learning and development. The results reported below are based on the responses of seniors who participated in the survey.

Student Learning Assessment at UWM

Assessment is a continuous activity at UWM as a means to determine the degree to which the curriculum and services match desired outcomes.

Assessment within the major is conducted regularly by each department. Assessment of general education goals is a campus-wide activity involving cross-disciplinary work. Feedback from these activities inform future work and enhancements to programs and majors.

In addition to the assessment activities conducted by departments and majors and general education outcomes, support services at UWM continuously assess their efforts in order to ensure their units provide the assistance students need to excel both inside and outside the classroom. At the university level, student satisfaction and patterns of student behavior, completion and success, are closely monitored.

All together these assessment activities combined ensure that the student experience at UWM is engaging, thoughtful, fulfilling and ultimately meets CLICK HERE for examples of student learning assessment and outcomes at UWM
