- I always planned on going to Madison, and got accepted there. I found out the summer before my freshman year that I was the recipient of a Lubar scholarship, which convinced me that UWM was the right school for me.

I am from a small town, and I think going to a big city was a great way to help me individually grow. I work for University Housing on campus and I absolutely love it. I've met great people, had great experiences and wouldn't change a thing.
I am proud to be a future graduate of the ITM certificate of major program at UW-Milwaukee because it provided me with an inordinate number of tools and career opportunities to better the community at large.
I enjoy the atmosphere and professors, and I like being close to family.
I enjoyed the campus and learned a lot so i would choose it again

I have enjoyed my time at UWM on and off campus and especially like how close together the campus is.
I have greatly enjoyed the 4 years I have spent at UWM. I met my best friend when she was my campus ambassador my freshman year. I have not only learned material for my career, but also about life in general.

I love the school and the atmosphere. The location is great with a lot to do and all of the faculty, students, and student organizations are great!
I love this school and the faculty.
I love UWM. It has a diverse population of students, professional professors, and access to connecting students with real world jobs before they graduate.
I loved my experience here and I love this school and this city.

I think it is a great college that offers a wide variety of academics. I have met some great professors, students, and alumni here.
I think UWM is an excellent school, I am proud to soon be an alum and to be a Panther.
I transfered from UWParkside. When I came to UWM I can honestly say that my grades improved and I understand the things that I learned.
I transferred here after a year at another school.
I was able to save money by living at home and going to well known business school.
It has been a great experience.
It is a good school.
It is a great college.
It is a local school with a great reputation and great education for the money.
It really made it easy with step by step guidance to be ready to compete in my field.
It was a fun not only academically but also all the student activities.
It was a good choice.
It was a great journey for me.
It was a great school, I enjoyed the different programs (Honors College was great), I also really enjoyed the faculty. Professor Belle Ragins for Diversity in Organizations, Romila Singh and countless other great professors.
It was affordable, convenient, and had a great and challenging accounting program.
It was an excellent experience.
It was an excellent university located located within driving distance from where I live.
It was the better option academically and more affordable. I would have really enjoyed time here as a Freshman and Sophomore.
Its an okay business program.
I've had a great experience and loved every minute I've been here.
Liked the small classes and being close to home
Located in the city that I'm from and familiar with and enjoy being in, uwm has a good program and many graduates that have gone on to go great things from the school of business Love the city. I like most of the teachers.
Love the school, great teachers who actually care about their students despite larger classroom sizes. Also the motto of "powerful ideas, proven results"
Loved the accounting program
Loved the college campus and sports teams around the city
Madison was my first choice. Very happy with UWM school of business and the accounting program.
Milwaukee is a great city and UWM a great place to learn.
Milwaukee is home for many businesses. As a business student, Milwaukee provides many job/internship opportunities and has a great business program and resources to help students succeed.
More comfortable, more business degree options, great supply chain program
More flexibility with most classes being offered at night.
My other siblings attended/attend UW-Milwaukee and I love the campus and staff.
No idea. Followed a girl here that had already broken up with me. She left after a semester.
Offer a wide variety of courses along with valuable resources to its students.
outstanding professors with great knowledge on matters

The accounting program at UWM has provided me with endless opportunities. Coming out of high school I never would have imagined obtaining a degree in accounting, working for one of the world's biggest accounting firms (Ernst & Young), and continuing my education with a masters degree in accountancy. UWM has provided the necessary tools to make all three of these possible. Located in the economic district of Wisconsin, there are few schools in the state that can offer what UWM does, a great education with abundant resources in a great location.

The accounting program is really good. They really set me up for a successful career in accounting! I will be going for my masters starting in the summer because of this program.

The affordability combined with a quality education especially in the business field.

The business school and account degree has exceeded expectations.

The business school was excellent and I enjoyed all my teachers

The classes offered are great and the professors do a wonderful job at teaching and helping students grow in making their career choices

The classes were great and The professors where nice

The faculty at UWM were great, especially in the accounting department.

The Finance faculty made me love UWM

The lubar school of business is great.

The opportunities provided by UWM throughout my college career have been very rewarding.

The professors are great and I loved the program.

The professors are very knowledgeable in their fields and you get an excellent education at a reasonable price

The teaching is very good at UWM.

UWM had a great atmosphere, dedicated and professional professors who seemed to care very much for each student. After hearing each professor talk about the others' accomplishments and understanding the level that they are at, it was wonderful knowing that I was receiving a great education.

UWM gave me the chance to finish what I started 14 years ago.

UWM has a great business program.

UWM has always been a school I have taken pride in and although I have had a dispute every now and again it would always be my school of choice.

UWM has given me opportunities and experiences that I could not have had anywhere else. My academic plans would be completely different at another university. UWM has shaped my future for the better UWM presented me with great opportunities to network with employers.

UWM provides a large campus with a small school feel. In a school of thousands I was still able to attend classes with as few as 15 people.

UWM provides a safe, exciting environment for learning, socializing and growing as individuals.

UWM seemed like the perfect choice because although many people make it seem like at a large University you don't have the extra resources, there is actually an over abundance of help. The fact that there was always some sort of help offered in my classes was very helpful. The professors were also always willing to help outside of lectures.

UWM turned out to be the perfect school for me. It's close to my family, but I also got involved with my sorority which wouldn't be the same on any other campus. I also enjoyed my classes and working with the academic and career advisors.

UW-Milwaukee has great resources for business students and a strong accounting program.

UW-Milwaukee has helped me develop the knowledge and skill set that I need to build my professional career and my life in general. The UWM experience has really changed my life, I would do it all over again.

Very good Economics program
Was able to graduate in 4 years. Majority of professors were positive yes
Yes, i believe it is in a very good location and also had quality resources.
Yes, I wish I would have started here. The students and teachers are more fun!
Yes, UWM offers varieties of classes that fits everyone's needs.
Probably
Although not the best program in the state, UWM was a great experience and has opened up a lot of doors career-wise for me.
As an MIS major I found the heavily reliance on SAP program too much, I would have liked to see more variety of technologies.
Because I liked the feel of the campus and the location. The Lubar Business School is well known and respected and that was a good fit for me.
City
close to home
Close to home and I love the city.
close to where i lived and to family and friends. short commute.
Cost and location made me choice UWM
dont know
Enjoyed going to a school that was close to home (Wauwatosa)
Enjoyed the campus, classes, and business school
Enjoyed the city, UWM offers alot of programs to choose from which is a big plus.
Enjoyed the size of the campus and loved the business school.
Enjoyed the student life at UW Madison much more than UWM - sports, on campus activities, two unions, more students, more like a college campus than commuter campus.
Felt I learned a lot through the accounting program. Assuming if I "had to do it all over again" and was going to be an accounting major, UWM would be a top choice.
Flexible and provides the right majors and classes I require
Good business school, some professors were very good and some were really difficult to understand
Good experience.
Great business education at a good price.
Great experience and great professors
Great professors and Lubar is a great buliding full of helpful teachers and a great larning atmosphere great school
great school, but for the past 2 years a number of foreign professor has increased which made it a bit difficult to learn the material.
great school. loved living in the city
Had a good experience at uwm
Had a good time. Good mix of social and school life. Played soccer here so that had a big impact on my selection.
Honestly I wish we had better sports teams, i.e. basketball and football.
I am from brookfield, so it is very close. I really loved the university and even though I am graduating, I find out new things they offer each day.
I am very dedicated to the idea of making my life in Wisconsin and making life here better. UWM allows me access to the resources to do that.
I believe the classes were more than adequate for my education in Marketing and they have prepared me for my future in business.

I chose to transfer to UWM because of it's location as well as its business program. Overall, I was satisfied with the program
I did like it here at UWM. The environment was nice.
I didn't enjoy doing my General classes at UWM. I always felt that I was just a number and not a student that the professor actually cared about. Once I reached the Business School and picked my major I enjoyed the school more. The teachers now know me by name and I feel comfortable going to them for help.
I didn't have my heart set on any specific college, but I had a good college life experience here. Bursar's office was a pain to deal with a lot of the time, and any questions I had regarding my progress toward my degree were tough to get answered. I also, in my 4 years being a business student, have never met or dealt academically with my assigned advisor, which I found irritating. I feel that if I had more one-on-one help with someone who knew me, I would be graduating earlier, even just a half year earlier, than I am today.
I ended much stronger than I started
I enjoyed my time at UWM
I enjoyed staying close to family and the program layout was very comfortable for me.
I enjoyed the atmosphere of a campus in a large city and the opportunities in the surrounding area.
I feel like I have gotten a lot out of my time here at uwm , but I am now not sure if the degree I chose would be the same now that I know more about other degrees.
I feel that classes could have been more challenging at times, however the structure that UWM presents allowed me to work two jobs throughout most of my college experience.
I feel that I got a good education and I love the city of Milwaukee
I got a college degree in 4 years and an internship in public accounting
I had a good experience and made good relationships. The only reason I would have gone somewhere else is because of the employment/intern opportunities outside of Wisconsin that other schools offer their students.
I had a great experience in all of my courses and enjoyed the majority of them. The only reason I would not choose UWM again if I had to do it all over would be due to the distance from my family.
I highly preferred UWM over my original school, UW-Whitewater. However, I feel UW-Madison degrees hold more weight. It's opinion, not fact though.
I know a lot of people that came here.
I learned a lot here, i however, would have liked to went to a college that is big into its sports.
I like being close to home; however, I may have learned to become more independent of my parents etc. had I chosen a school further away.
I like it here. It's convenient to my home commute, and I personally believe that it's what you do at where you are that counts the most.
I like the city and I also liked the school of business
I like the city and the campus is very nice as well.
I like the freedom UWM has and that the course material was taught very clearly. Professors didn'y make it difficult to understand course material/
I liked the idea of graduating with a four year degree, but I ran into a lot of obstacles during my time here. For example, grades not being recorded into my transcripts by the departments at the end of the semester.
I liked the school and the city.
I lived in Milwaukee my whole life. If I could do it again I might have went away for school.
I love Milwaukee and the East Side, however I love to travel so going out of state could have been a good experience.

I love the availability of night classes, they fit in with my work and make it easier and less stressful.

I love UWM, the only thing I missed was having a football team

I loved being able to be in the business scholars program where I had smaller class sizes and more one on one time with teachers.

I loved going to school here however when I wanted to drive to campus it was so difficult to park and if I ever parked underground it was so expensive. This only really affected me my senior year when I moved off campus. If I was going to choose a school for a master program, this would parking would be part of my decision. Also, I didnt like how the advising system worked. I would have liked it if I was able to get closer with 1 advisor, it was sometimes confusing when you went to see different advisors everytime and they gave you different advise. However, I felt most of my professors did a great job.

I met alot of talented and interested people.

I might have chosen to go out of the city closer to home.

I moved for personal/family reasons, UWM has been sufficient for my educational needs.

I could choose UWM because it is a school for second chances. High school students that did not do that great can go to UWM and prove themselves. The Lubar School of Business has good teachers that care about the students and have real world knowledge to the topics that they are teaching.

I probably would because I got to have the "big university" experience without having to move too far away. However, I have gotten some bad advice over the years from certain advisors which caused some major road blocks. Other than that, no complaints.

I really enjoy the university.

I really enjoyed going to school here. I enjoyed working on campus at the help desk, and enjoyed my classes.

I really like the location of campus, being so close to the lake and downtown. I also really like all the opportunities available to find internships and other experiences to help further your career while still in school. There are also lots of oportunites to get involved on campus, which have been a huge advantage. However, if I could do it over I would like to go somewhere farther away from home.

I really like the night classes that are offered at UWM. I appreciate the fact that UWM offers many services and programs for their students as well. The campus is easy to get around and is easy to commute to as well.

I really was impressed by the Lubar School of Business. I found many teachers very helpful and inspiring. I feel that I have received a quality education that will help me as I move on to my career.

I started at UWGB. I hated it there, the professors, my fellow students, it just wasn't for me.

However I'm not completely thrilled about my experience here at UWM, specifically related to the advisors within Lubar. I often would be told one thing by one advisor just to be told something different a week later.

I think it is a great school with excellent ties to the community.

I think the education wasn't that good, some professors dont even speak great English for you to understand which hurts your understanding of the material, however I do like the diversity there.

I wanted to graduate from Carroll University. However because of expenses I was unable to and decided on coming here. UWM offers a great business program and I have thoroughly enjoyed my experience here. The curriculum is challenging yet there are many sources to receive any help that may be needed.

I was a music education major first.

I was able to complete my degree in 4 years with good grades. I made lasting friends. Was close to my family. Paid a reasonable price for my education.

I was undecided at first and then became an Accounting major. After finding out how great the Accounting program at UWM is, I would definitely choose to go here for the program. If I were to major in something else, I am not sure on my decision.
I was unsure of what degree I wanted to pursue originally, but my interest in computers and UWM's strong MIS/ITM program pushed me toward what should be a successful degree.
I would choose it because I know people in the city. I would not choose it to get a more "college life" experience
I would choose to attend UWM again because it was the right fit from a financial standpoint.
I would choose UWM because of the quality of the instructors, many of them care a lot about their students.
I would chose it because of how cheap and close it is to home.
I would have liked to have gone to a school that had more spirit and had a better university environment. (ex. UW-Madison)
I would have tried to get in somewhere bigger.
I would like to have gone to school in a different state but overall UWM has given me the education that I needed.
I would most likely choose to attend UWM because now I know all the great programs it has to offer and think its a great school to further your education.
If I planned on keeping Architecture as my major, I wouldn't have attended UWM, but for Marketing I would have I'm happy to receive the title of a Bachelor's degree from UWM, however I've faced some difficulties within the university that have made my education challenging.
In another life I may have chosen to go to an out of state college and possibly have made a different career choice.
It is a good university at a reasonable cost.
It is a great school I love the business school, but if I could choose again I would go to school out of state. But other than that I love UWM
It is in a close location to my family.
It is too expensive to go to a Catholic Private University, which was my first choice if cost was not a factor. I did not like the advising in the Lubar School. I think they had no urgency to get me to graduate in 4 years and I was just a number here in most cases. Although, I do see the potential to make this school great but it is unfortunate that it is often taken as a poor school.
It treated me well.
it very close to home and the education is good
It was a good experience and great faculty
It was a good school but some of the professors were not that interested in teaching the material that was relevant and on their exams. There is also quite a lot of issues that arise when dealing with foreign TA's that do not speak English very well.
It was a great school that provided me a great education. My career here at UWM will impact me for life
It was an overall good experience. Some teachers I still wonder why they are at the school, but there are a fair amount that make a difference. Classes and programs were interesting and fair.
It was close to home. It was straight forward I knew the classes I had to take to earn my degree when the first semester I attended.
It was the most convenient location to attend while working.
Its a great school with a great selection of majors
It's affordable and a well diverse place.
It's close to home

Its close to home, I just dont know how many more winters I have left in me.
It's one of the less expensive universities that also allowed me to work while in school.
I've enjoyed my time at UWM and felt that I will graduate with the experience to succeed in the real world.
Location
Long commute is sometimes tedious, but necessary for the degree I choose.
low tuition. convenient location.
No complaints, good school.
Overall good experience with teaching. The program seems headed in great direction under Dr. Ross.
Overall very useful course. The only issue is that many professors were difficult to understand and many classes were not taught by PHD's
Some of the advisers at the university were not my favorite but once I found one I liked she made my experience at UWM well worth it.
The Accounting program is well structured and over many resources to help start and develop a career
The business program was very good. I was impressed.
The business school is very credible and I had a great experience as a student.
The campus is laid out in a compacted area. It makes it convenient to get from class to class. The availability of night classes was convenient for me to schedule around my work schedule
The class sizes were huge until you get to your core classes, but enjoyable over all.
The fact that UWM is close to home is and was a major plus to the development of who I am. I also like the amount of newtworking I have been able to do around the city of Milwaukee.
The University of Wisconsin LaCrosse allows students to graduate in 4.5 years with 150 credits instead of paying graduate school prices. They also require a full time semester internship.
This school has a lot to offer. Also, most of the professors are very kind and helpful.
UW-Milwaukee is a great location for my education. The Lubar School of Business is also a very reputable and good business school. I would attend UW-Milwaukee again because it was a perfect school to complete my business education.
When I changed my major, I found UWM was a good fit for my new chosen career path.
would have liked to go to school somewhere warmer
Would rather have gone to college somewhere warmer and where I plan to get a job.
Yes because I had great success here and the atmosphere fit my personality very well.
Yes. It is a great campus.
Probably No
A different university
Because I wanted to meet new people and get away from my hometown
Because the college atmosphere was not that exciting. Too much of a commuter school. I would have enjoyed meeting meeting more people. 90% of the students here were not engaging. For example, usually when you walk by someone on a campus, you say "what's up" or at least acknowledge them.
Being a disabled student, sometimes it was difficult to get the help I needed to obtaining a degree. Because of how I learn, doing the classes in the order that advising implemented after January of last year caused more discource for me in obtaining a degree. I have to mix up my classes and before I was able to take 400 level courses with the 300 level courses, this type of mix worked.
go to madison
Horrible instructors
Housing was so expensive here compared to other places.

I began as an architect major, so my only in state choice was UWM, but I also was accepted to Madison so if I had to do it over knowing I wasn't going to be an architect, I would probably have gone there.
I had a few really good teachers, but the rest were just going through the motions and didn't care.
I learned that I do better in situations with smaller classes and a smaller campus size. UWM was too big for me.
I may choose to go to a more challenging and prestigious university.
I really Love this school, but I am a sports fanatic and I feel as tho I have truly missed out on college football and having athletic pride
I would have chosen online school as the accounting degree can be completed online.
I would have chosen something closer (I live in the suburbs and commute, parking is horrendous) & possibly something smaller. I found out a couple years in I could have attended Carroll University for less per credit part time (which is what I've been the whole time at UWM except Spring 2011) than UWM.
I would have gone out of state to get a different college experience.
I would have liked to attend more of a prominent university in the country.
I would probably not attend UWM again because I am an out-of-state student, and even with the Midwest Student Exchange Program, the tuition is more expensive than I needed to pay for a bachelor's degree.
I'm a commuting student and the traffic coming into downtown Milwaukee during night classes is not enjoyable to say the least. Instructors were very unfriendly in most occasions, minus a few individual teachers whom I thought were very helpful at times.
It is too close to my hometown
Lack of school spirit - missed that part of the "college experience". Although it grew on me, I never loved living in Milwaukee. Ok school, but generally disappointed in most classes and instructors.
Live here, wish I could have gotten away
No, I would have moved to California and attended there
Parking is ridiculous, and its even a scam to park around campus because everything is shortly timed before they ticket. Campus is just like parking, crammed. What students pay these days for tuition alone is more than enough to have all these fees and little charges. UWM finds ways to nickel and dime everything possible. Ohh and what's with hiring teachers that don't speak english well? I can't learn if I can't understand them. Another is a teacher that just reads powerpoints they got from the text. We paid them to teach us, and for the textbook. Don't waste my time in lecture, when I can read powerpoints myself. Its not like I could even see the dean and have them do anything. I've tried to the point of having over half the class complain on how a teacher gave no curve to a FAILING class average. Give us a break, and let us concentrate on our academics.
Professors do not work with needs of students as much as they should. Online classes were extra cost and exams were held on campus which took time out of my schedule.
school is too small and it doesn't feel like a safe place to live plus not enough parking for commuters or course offerings as far as time and days.
Soccer was not ideal
The advisors in the business school are for the most part, awful! They treat you like a number, you never see the same advisor twice, you have to wait forever, and then some of then give you attitude or wrong advice. Also, the majority of the professors don't care about their students either. The way most grade is unfair and very stressful for students. Most are very hard to understand as well. It's easy to teach when your tenured and can't get fired!!
The group work was ineffective.

To many teachers/TA's who don't speak English made it very hard to learn.
UWM has a terrible reputation in the busienss community. If not for the Business Schoalrs Society, I would have transfered to a different University.
While my experiences outside of the classroom and the people I met at UWM were second to none, the strained relationship between the university and the surrounding area made it difficult to feel a true college experience.
Definitely No
Didn't learn a thing.
I would have liked to go to a more prestigious and challenging university.
The business majors at UWM did not include a program that suited my needs. The classes all were geared toward working at a fortune 500 company, it would have been nice to have some classes emphasizing working for a small to mid sized companies.
The students of the Lubar School of Business are unmotivated and I feel the requirements for acceptance are too easy. If the school wants a better reputation they need to make it more challenging. I have had many great professors but the majority are clearly only working to work, not because of their love of teaching. There are many things I would change with the structure of the classes, for one the group project requirement. I understand it is important to learn how to work as a group but all I have learned from group projects is that many students consider a "C" a great grade. The social loafing phenomena is evident among the business students. I also do not feel the assistant dean of student services [is] connected from what is going on with the students and classes.
This school is politically one-sided. A family member who attends school at UWM has even failed a class for taking a certain stance on a paper. Any groups on campus I belong to has been treated unfairly. Also, many teachers and teaching assistants were foreign and hard to understand. I feel that I have learned very little that will help me in life in any way.
Too close to home, wish I could have gone out of state.
Too many students. Not enough individual attention from teachers. Too many teachers whose English is questionable at best. I came from UWSP as a music major, I was sought out by my advisors and was completely lost in the crowd when I came to UWM. I was happy with the amount of online and nightttime classes available. However, if advisors and teachers aren?t available past 5:00, how can a student who works until 5:00 make it to meet with them? If the transfer process was not a mess in itself, I would?ve transferred to a different school again.

close to home
Close to home.
I grew up in Milwaukee, it was nice to stay by my family but if I was to go back now I might want something different.
It is not recommended in my field of study to study with the same professor for more than four years
It turned out to be a very good school that gave me good working opportunities.
recieved free tuition from marquette through parents benefits sub-par instruction with primarily foreign language speaking professors
The business program here is good
