Artist Talk: Steve Rowell
September 7, 2-4 PM with reception to follow

Featuring responses from Richard Grusin, Director of the Center for 21st Century Studies and Professor of English at UWM and Jennifer Johung, Associate Professor of Art History, UWM; and a special presentation by Christine Anhalt, Research Scientist, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources

INOVA (Institute of Visual Arts)
2155 N. Prospect, Milwaukee
Admission Free

Join exhibiting artist Steve Rowell as he discusses his Uncanny Sensing, Remote Valleys project: an investigation of ecology, animism, and the anthropic principle in our technology-dominated era. Richard Grusin and Jennifer Johung will respond to the exhibition and the scope of Rowell’s research. Conservation biologist Christine Anhalt will give a special presentation on wolf pack research in Wisconsin and demonstrate the use of an audio surveillance device called the "howl box".

Steve Rowell: Uncanny Sensing is on view at INOVA through September 15.
