Bodies, Politics, Cookbooks: A Global Studies Fellows Colloquium on Food

November 19 & December 17, 2010
10am-12pm • Garland 104

The Center for International Education is proud to announce the inaugural year of its Global Studies Fellows program. The Fellows will present their latest research at two colloquia on Friday, November 19 and Friday, December 17. The first will feature presentations by Ellen Amster and Kennan Ferguson followed by moderated questions and an open discussion. Please join all the Fellows at this timely event. If you would like to join us for a light lunch afterwards (in Garland 104) please RSVP to Eric Herhuth at eherhuth@uwm.edu by Friday, November 12.

The Fellows:

Ellen Amster
Assistant Professor of History
Project Title - Telling the Truth about Colonialism in the Body: Muslim Midwifery, Obstetrical Science, and Birthing Modern Famine in Morocco

A. Aneesh
Assistant Professor of Sociology
Project Title - Life and Property: The Ethics of Plant Ownership

Kennan Ferguson
Assistant Professor of Political Science
Project Title - Political Cookbooks: Nations Are What They Eat

Kristin Pitt
Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature
Project Title – The Vulnerable Body: Globalization, Migration, and Exposure in Contemporary American Narrative

Manu Sohti
Assistant Professor of Architecture
Project Title – The Last Apples of Kazakhstan: Modernity, Geo-Politics, and Globalization in Central Asia

To learn more about the Fellows’ projects please visit CIE’s website, www.international.uwm.edu