Course Description

This course provides students with a general overview of international relations. Students need not be familiar with international relations, or even political science, as this course will begin with the basics and cover a variety of topics of interest to a broad range of students. We will cover the historical context of international relations, and you will learn about the essential concepts, ideas, actors, and phenomena to better understand global politics. Our focus will be on how the actor interests, interactions, and institutions structure global politics.

We will engage in the study of international relations in this class using a positivist political science approach. As such, you will be exposed to theoretical ideas thought to explain topics in global politics such as conflict, economic interaction, and international law. We will then assess these theoretical ideas using a variety of empirical tools (basic game theory, analysis of historical information, examination of statistical evidence) common in political science.

There are two general goals of this course. First, the readings in the textbook and the lectures I provide are intended to expose you to many of the important concepts, theories, and building blocks necessary to understand contemporary global politics. Second, this course is aimed at introducing the theories and analytical tools used in empirical political science to many students who have no familiarity with this field of study. It is my sincere hope that the material in this class leads you to think differently about politics and ask the type of questions that can be further explored in other courses offered in political science.

Over the course of this semester, you will read and I will provide lecture notes about several topics in international relations, divided into four units. The first unit will cover the foundations of political science and the study of international relations. The second unit examines aspects of war and peace such as international conflict, civil war, and terrorism. The third unit covers international political economy, including trade, finance, and development. The fourth and final unit covers transnational politics including international law, human rights, and the environment.

GENERAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENT

This course fulfills the Social Science General Education Requirement (GER) through its focus on: a) the study of intrapersonal, interpersonal, and/or socio-cultural factors associated with individual behavior, collective action, or societal development; and b) the study of human collectivities, organizations, institutions, and cultures, their infrastructures, and interrelationships.

This course meets these requirements through our examination of the varied personal, social, and international forces that shape individual and collective political behavior and international relations. We will also examine the institutions and actors which shape global politics.

Course Requirements

This is an online course, and so it is necessary that you have a reliable Internet connection for the duration of the semester. All course materials (with the exception of the textbook) are available online. All graded assignments, including exams or quizzes will be taken online through Canvas.

In this course you will complete weekly reading assignments, take 12 short quizzes on the weekly readings, write five discussion posts, and complete four writing assignments. Details of these expectations are provided below. This three credit class is expected to include weekly preparation and completion of quizzes, taking about 38 hours. Required readings should take approximately 45 additional hours over the course of the semester, and the essays are expected to take approximately 24 hours in total. All told, this class is estimated to take 107 hours of your time.

CANVAS ACCESS

This class runs off a companion website available on Canvas. I will use this site to disseminate information regarding the course such as reminders about assignments and lecture notes. I will also collect your writing assignments, and post grades and Canvas.

You may direct all questions regarding the performance of Canvas to the University Help Desk (229-4040). It is important to note that due to this being an online-only course, lack of access to Canvas is NOT an acceptable excuse for failure to complete the required work. If you have problems with access, you must contact me immediately and include your Help Desk ticket number or verification of Canvas service outage. I expect you to check the Canvas course site often for announcements and other materials, and to be sure to check your UWM email as well.
You must complete a short quiz on Canvas dealing with the content of this syllabus. The quiz can be attempted an unlimited number of times, cannot hurt your grade, and must be completed with a 100%. No content on Canvas will unlock, nor will you be able to receive any grades until this quiz is completed. You will have access to the syllabus under the first module listed in the course site. The point of the quiz is to ensure that you understand the guidelines and requirements for the class so that there is no possibility for confusion later.

REQUIRED MATERIAL

I expect that you will prepare for each quiz by reading the lecture notes and assigned material from the textbook. The textbook for this course is:

You can obtain this book through the UWM/eCampus site, and I strongly urge you to explore rental options or eBooks to reduce the cost you pay. There is no reason to buy a brand new copy if you can get a good used copy or if you are comfortable with a rental or an eBook, which typically are as much as half the cost. You absolutely must have a copy of this book to succeed in the course, however.

The publisher offers an ebook version for about $40.00, available here: https://digital.wwnorton.com/worldpol4. Rentals from eCampus and elsewhere appear to be even less than that. Access to the extra online resources for this book is not required. I have taken great care to balance quality of the textbook with cost, and I believe that this book represents the best in both categories.

Each semester there is at least one student who tries to avoid getting the textbook. Each semester, this student does not pass the class. Typically, before the end of the first unit this student gives up on the course, because it is not possible to do well on the quizzes without reading the chapter each for each topic.

If you cannot afford the book in any of its available formats (including used or rental options) you must let me know immediately. I will place a copy of the book on course reserve, but this is only a temporary fix as you can only check the book out for short periods of time and cannot leave the library with it. There are two sections of this class, and there is no guarantee that the reserve copy will be available for you when you need it.

QUIZZES

Beginning in the second week, you will be required to take a quiz on the material covered each week. There are twelve (12) total quizzes, each worth five points. The quizzes are taken through Canvas by selecting the correct quiz in each module. These quizzes have a time limit, and although you may use your notes, be sure to finish the quiz before the timer runs out. There is one quiz for nearly all required chapters in the text book, and you must complete the quizzes in order of the topics as listed on the syllabus and in the Canvas modules. You are required to take all twelve of these quizzes, and your lowest two grades will automatically be dropped. This means that since the quizzes are worth five points each, all together the ten quizzes that are not dropped are worth 50% of your final grade in the course.

Each quiz will have fifteen (15) questions drawn at random from a question bank on Canvas. This means that it is possible that each student will take a slightly different quiz in the same week. This is to discourage cheating. Each question is worth one point, meaning that if you get more than six questions incorrect, you have failed the quiz. The weekly quizzes cannot be retaken - remember that your lowest grade is dropped at the end of the semester. You should spend some time studying the material before taking the quizzes to give yourself the best possible chance to get a good grade.

Questions for the quizzes will come directly from one of two locations (with the possibility of appearing in both places). First, I create most of the questions from the material in the book, such as definitions or important ideas. Second, I create questions from my lecture notes, which are available to you on Canvas, and must be opened before that week’s quiz can be accessed. Underlined terms are good candidates for definitional questions, and I try to include a question on the “big ideas” of the week where possible. Based on the possible questions each week, failure to read the chapter and the lecture notes will make it nearly impossible to pass the quiz.

A note about when quizzes are due– I have selected topics and organized the required material (including quizzes) with the understanding that most students will be completing one topic per week. However– since many students have full time employment, childcare concerns, military service, etc.– I have built the course so that you may complete all the topics in a unit by the end of that unit as listed in the syllabus and on Canvas. This means that you can be somewhat flexible in how you approach the work in this class; however, for most students it will be best to complete a topic each week. Don’t get behind, since you need to complete the topics in order!

CRITICAL ESSAYS

There are four written assignments in this course, each worth 10% of your final grade. Each essay will be between 1.5 and 2 double-spaced pages. The purpose of these essays is to formulate an argument (thesis) and credibly defend your perspective by providing evidence from the readings. Being “right” is not important; being clear, concise, and leveraging the readings to argue a point is essential.

The guidelines document for formatting the essays and the rubric I use to grade them are posted on Canvas. Failure to follow the formatting rules for will result in non-passing grade for the essay, as evidenced by the rubric. For the first essay, you will have the opportunity to restructure the document for full points only after discussing it with me. For the other essays you will NOT have this opportunity and the grade will be final. I am happy to communicate with you prior to the deadline, and read your essay and ensure you have done the assignment correctly.

Essays must be uploaded as a document to the appropriate Canvas dropbox by the end of each unit (due dates listed in the schedule below). The document must be one of the following file types: .doc, .docx, .odt, .txt, .rtf, .pdf – note that Apple Pages cannot be read by Canvas. Unreadable files will receive no points. Grades will be assigned via a rubric, available on Canvas. Late essay assignments can at most only earn the class average.

The UWM Writing Center (http://writingcenter.uwm.edu) provides peer tutoring to help students develop their writing skills. If you encounter difficulty with the written assignments in this course and would like to work with the Writing Center to revise and improve your work, we can create a structure for you to do so.

PARTICIPATION POSTS

Participation in class discussions is also required. You will complete five discussion posts over the semester, each due by the end of the unit it is assigned in (due dates listed in the schedule below), with one exception. The first discussion post is due in the first week.

For each post, I will create a forum in Canvas and attach it to the unit module. In order to get your participation points for a post, you will need to first answer the question I pose by creating a new thread in the appropriate discussion forum. Make sure that you are contributing to the discussion by answering my prompt when you write your post. Then, you will write two replies on threads started by your classmates, making sure to respond to their take on the prompt. Note that this means that you should contribute to the discussion as early as possible in order to ensure that you can reply to other students.

Each discussion post is worth two participation points. You will be graded on content and impact, and can receive half-point intervals ranging between 0 and 2 points. One point will be awarded for your original answer to the prompt, and a half point for each reply to a classmate. I will downgrade posts which are too difficult to read, are off topic, or do not follow the guidelines listed in the “professionalism” section below. It is important to note that material outside that presented in the readings or lecture notes is not required. If you do include outside information, it must be from a respectable source and include a citation. Failure to cite outside material will result in a loss of all points for that post.

There is a discussion board under the “Syllabus” module on Canvas where you can post general questions for either me or your classmates to answer. I will check in on that thread periodically, but for faster responses I encourage you to reach out to me by email. However, you should note that I will not accept email correspondence as a substitute for class participation.
Grading Policies

Consistent with the above requirements, course grades will be calculated as follows: ten non-dropped quizzes at 5% each (50%), four essays at 10% each (40%), and five 2% participation posts for the remaining 10% (total 100%).

Grades will appear on Canvas, typically in five business days or less. Course grades will be calculated using the scale below. Rounding and grade curves are at my discretion. You are responsible for ensuring that you have received grades for all completed work. If you do not see a grade for a completed quiz or essay you should contact me immediately. After the last official day of classes in the semester I will not entertain any questions about missing work or grades on work completed during the semester.

PROFESSIONALISM

Unfortunately, it is necessary for me to mention that when you communicate with me, other students, and/or write your discussion posts you must be civil and professional. Discussion posts which are not written in complete sentences will be downgraded, but posts which are abusive, profane, or a personal attack on another student will not be tolerated. If this occurs, you will lose participation points for the post and be warned. If it occurs again, you will lose all participation points for the semester and I will report you to the Dean of Students. Discussion posts are a chance for you to show how smart and engaged you are with the course. No trolls allowed.

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

Any student who cheats or commits any other act of academic dishonesty will fail this course and be referred to the appropriate UWM authorities. The UWM policy on academic misconduct is available at http://www.uwm.edu/Dept/Acad_Aff/policy/academicmisconduct.
I take plagiarism and academic misconduct very seriously. Not knowing that you were committing academic misconduct is not a valid defense; it is my understanding that you will learn the rules or ask me. Consider this your only warning.

Indiana University–Bloomington has an excellent resource for those who are unsure what constitutes plagiarism. I urge you to read through this web page and familiarize yourself with what is considered plagiarism: https://wts.indiana.edu/writing-guides/plagiarism.html. Another useful resource is http://www.plagiarism.org, which has several resources, including a service to check your paper for plagiarism.

Keep these links handy and as you complete your writing assignments for this and any other course. If you are unsure if you might be plagiarizing, review the examples they provide, and if necessary ask me. As the Indiana web page instructs, you must give credit whenever you use the ideas, opinions, written or spoken words, facts, or materials generated by another person when that information is not public knowledge. This includes information from the textbook that you might want to use in an essay.

GRADE APPEAL PROCEDURES

A student may appeal a grade on the grounds that it is based on a capricious or arbitrary decision of the course instructor. Such an appeal shall follow the established procedures adopted by the department, college, or school in which the course resides. These procedures are available in writing from the respective department chairperson or the Academic Dean of the College/School. Information regarding the policies of UWM on this issue may be found at http://www4.uwm.edu/secu/docs/other/S28.htm.

INCOMPLETES

A notation of “incomplete” may be given in lieu of a final grade to a student who has carried a subject successfully until the end of a semester but who, because of illness or other unusual and substantiated cause beyond the student’s control, has been unable to take or complete the final examination or to complete some limited amount of term work. Information regarding the policies of UWM on this issue may be found at http://www4.uwm.edu/secu/docs/other/S31.pdf.

Other University Policies

Information regarding several standing policies of UWM is available at https://uwm.edu/secu/syllabus-links/ Some several relevant sections are detailed below.
SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS

Any student who needs special accommodations due to a documented disability should please contact me as soon as possible. Access to information and forms is available at https://uwm.edu/arc/.

Please inform me within the first three weeks of class if there is a scheduling conflict between your sincerely held religious beliefs and taking an exam or meeting the academic requirements of this course. Information regarding the policies of UWM on this issue may be found at http://www4.uwm.edu/secu/docs/other/S1.5.htm.

Information regarding the policies of UWM on students called to active military duty may be found at https://uwm.edu/military-veterans/.

DISCRIMINATORY CONDUCT

Discriminatory conduct will not be tolerated. It poisons our common work and learning environment and threatens the careers, educational experience, and wellbeing of students, faculty, and staff. Information regarding the policies of UWM on this issue may be found at http://www4.uwm.edu/secu/docs/other/S47.pdf.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURES

Students may direct complaints to the head of the academic unit or department in which the complaint occurs. If the complaint allegedly violates a specific university policy, it may be directed to the head of the department or academic unit in which the complaint occurred or to the appropriate university office responsible for enforcing the policy. Information regarding the policies of UWM on this issue may be found at http://www4.uwm.edu/secu/docs/other/S49.7.htm.
