THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MILWAUKEE DOCUMENT NO. 1800, DECEMBER 19, 1991

MOTION: To shorten the deadline for students to change classes from credit to audit basis to the end of the tenth class day (end of the add period).

RATIONALE: Current campus policy limits changes from audit to credit to the first ten class days. However, students are given the first four weeks of class to change from credit to audit status. UW System Administration has informed the campuses that they must adopt much stricter policies regarding the enrollment of audit students, particularly to insure class access to credit students before permitting auditors in classes.

By making the deadline for changing credit status agree with the add deadline we will satisfy UW System requirements to reduce the possibility of students initially getting class spaces by registering on a credit basis, and later changing over to audit status when it is too late for the instructor to add new credit students.
