MEMORIAL RESOLUTION FOR
PROFESSOR FRANK L. SCHICK

DR. FRANK L. SCHICK, FIRST DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCE, DIED FEBRUARY 7, 1992

Dr. Frank L. Schick, 74, died February 7 at a hospital in Palm Springs, Calif., after a stroke. He lived in Bethesda, Maryland.

Dr. Schick was Dean of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee (UWM), School of Library and Information Science (SLIS) from 1966 to 1970. "He was a man of vision and he was ahead of his time when he named the UWM program the School of Library and Information Science. He will be missed by all of us who knew him well," said Mohammed M. Aman, Dean of the School of Library and Information Science at UWM.

While Dr. Schick was Dean of SLIS, the school offered two separate masters: one in Library Science and the other in Information Science. In 1970, he returned to Washington as the Director of the Library Surveys branch of the National Center for Education Statistics. He was one of the nation's foremost authorities in the field of educational statistics.

Dr. Schick, who was born in Vienna and came to this country in 1938, served with the U.S. Army in Europe during World War II. He was a graduate of Wayne State University in Detroit, and he received a master's degree in public administration from the University of Chicago and a doctorate in library science from the University of Michigan. He taught library science courses at Wayne State, Columbia University and the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Schick was a member of the American Library Association, the International Federation of Library Associations and the Cosmos Club. He had served as consulting editor of the Bowker Annual and was the author of statistical handbooks on aging and on Hispanics. He also wrote Records of the Presidency and The Paperback Book in America.

Survivors include his wife, Renee, of Bethesda, Maryland; two sons, Tom, of Rockville, Maryland; James, of Oak View, Calif.; a daughter, Ellen Bell of Gaithersburg, Maryland; and eight grandchildren.
