The Graduate Committee of the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee reviewed the existing graduate programs and the development of additional graduate work at the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee. On the basis of this review, the following information and non-policy recommendations are made:

1. The Committee is satisfied with the administration of the graduate program by Dean Freeman and with the advice given departments in planning programs.

2. The Committee urges departments to confer with Dean Freeman in all early planning stages, so that he may facilitate progress; a proposal should be ready to go to the Administrative Committee of the Graduate Faculty not later than January, and preferably earlier, for a program to begin the following fall.

3. The Committee considers it important for all qualified departments to offer graduate programs as soon as possible. Plans should be made in terms of programs, not merely courses; requests should be for a few courses, enough to offer choice. As soon as enough courses are offered for a student to be able to meet requirements for a Master's degree, the degree can be granted at UW-M. The program planned may be academic or a combination of academic and education.

4. The Committee considers it desirable to secure for UW-M our pro-rata share of graduate assistantships and fellowships, to build up a nucleus of full-time graduate students.

5. The Committee is ready to advise with departments which are planning graduate programs.

6. The Committee recommends to the faculty and administration that a more liberal library budget be provided.

7. The Committee recommends that Dean Willard be invited to address a faculty meeting on the subject of research.
