MOTION:

Recommendation from the Computer Science Faculty that the Name of the Applied Science Program be changed to Computer Science in the College of Engineering and Applied Science.

RATIONALE:

1. The name change reflects the reality of the Undergraduate Program accurately;

2. This more accurate designation of the Program will benefit the students. For instance, the diploma that Computer Science graduates receive will refer to Bachelor of Science (Computer Science) rather than Bachelor of Science (Applied Science);

3. Computer Science has been the only major in Applied Science for about two decades. There is no other major on the horizon;

4. Applied Science is a vague term that is not understood well by students and employers.
