Annual Report of the Student Counseling & Guidance Committee, 1964-65

The Student Counseling and Guidance Committee held four meetings during the year. At these meetings reports were considered regarding developments in the counseling and advisement of students. Specifically, attention was devoted to staff growth and function of the Student Counseling Center, developments in the orientation of new students, and advisement and counseling implications of the advance mail registration.

At the meeting of February 23, 1965 the committee went on record as supporting the advance mail registration procedures. It urged that the procedures be continued and that every effort be made to improve them.

It was the consensus of this committee that the newly-elected committee should carefully re-examine its role and function. This is true because many of the prescribed responsibilities are now cared for by other agencies and committees within the University.
