Report and Recommendations of the Admissions Committee

I. The UWM Admissions Committee approved the following policy December 8, 1964. This policy has been administered by the Admissions Office since the date it was approved.

"Until September, 1966, students in the upper 30 per cent of their high school graduating class may be admitted with a pattern deficiency not greater than the difference between the old and new admission requirements. If the deficiency is in mathematics, it must be made up before the beginning of the sophomore year."

II. Recommendation

The Committee recommends that the Admissions Committee beginning with the academic year of 1965-66, in addition to its administrative representatives, shall consist of five members of the teaching faculty who will be appointed by the Chancellor of UWM for three year terms. The appointments should be made in such a manner that there is a carryover of at least two members from the previous academic year. The appointments should reflect the major divisions of the University. These five teaching members will constitute the voting members of the Committee.

III. Recommendation

The Committee recommends that the UWM Faculty go on record as favoring continuation of the policy that a student applying for admission to the UWM who ranks in the lower half of his high school class and whose composite score on the ACT is 20 or below be sent a letter discouraging him from pursuing admission. A student in this category may request reconsideration contingent upon his passing with a satisfactory score achievement tests, including English, mathematics, and at least one other area, as specified by the Admissions Committee.
