101 (2) When the Faculty refers a substantive calendar matter to a new 102 special committee or otherwise creates a special committee not proposed 103 on the Calendar, such action is tentative pending completion of the 104 following procedures:

105 (a) The Codification Committee editorially reviews the special
106 committee's charge and composition for adherence to the foregoing 107 legislative criteria. (1) a through (1)f)
108 (b) Subject to confirmation and modification by the Faculty at its 109 next regular meeting, the Codification Committee has the authority
110 to revise the legislation creating the special committee.
111 (c) Within two weeks of the initial action by the Faculty in creating 112 the special committee, the Codification Committee reports its review
113 and/or revision action to the Secretary of the Faculty.
114 (d) Following notification by the Codification Committee of revisions
115 of the legislation creating the special committee, then the Secretary
116 of the Faculty issues a call for convening the newly created special 117 committee only as an interim body pending conclusive action by the 118 Faculty confirming or modifying the revised description of the 119 special committee.
120 (e) Following notification that the Codification Committee has 121 not made any changes in the legislation creating the special com-
122 mittee then the Secretary of the Faculty issues a call for convening 123 the newly created special committee.

(2) When the Faculty adopts a procedural motion to refer a substantive calendar matter to a new special committee or otherwise creates a special committee not proposed on the Calendar, the Codification Committee editorially reviews the special committee's charge and composition for adherence to the foregoing legislative criteria. Subject to confirmation and modification by the Faculty at its next regular meeting, the Codification Committee has the responsibility to review and the tentative authority to revise the legislation creating the special committee. Within two weeks of the initial action by the Faculty in creating the special committee, the Codification Committee reports its review and revision action to the Secretary of the Faculty. Following notification of the action of the Codification Committee, the Secretary of the Faculty issues a call for convening of the newly created special committee as an interim body pending conclusive action by the Faculty.
