STUDENT LIFE AND INTERESTS COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS ON PUBLICATIONS

The Calendar agenda sheet indicates that document 699 would be submitted in revised form (Bulletin Board, Handbill, and Publication Regulations). Instead the section on PUBLICATIONS has been submitted in revised form and the items pertaining to Bulletin Boards and Handbills will be submitted at the May 11, 1972 meeting of the Senate. Bulletin Board and Handbill regulations have been sent to the Student Senate for revision. The revisions will be submitted to SLIC and in turn to the Senate.

Present Regulations as on Page 27 of Student Organization Handbook

1. No announcement of any new publication bearing the name of the University or edited by students and intended for sale or distribution to students shall be made, or a new publication printed, until such publication shall have received the approval of the Student Life and Interests Committee. Only chartered student organizations may receive such approval. Consult the Student Activities Office for further information.

Revisions as Proposed by SLIC

1. Publications edited or published by students or student organizations need not seek the approval of the Student Life and Interests Committee if they meet the following conditions:

a) State funds are not used to finance the Publication.

b) If the publication solicits advertising or uses the name of the University, the Publication must print in its advertising contract and in each issue of the Publication, the following disclaimer for University liability:

"This publication is not an official publication of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. It is not funded by the University, nor does it claim to represent any organization other than the . The University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee is not liable for debts incurred by the Publisher."

2. No student organization, new or established, will be permitted to publish any school paper or magazine unless first receiving the guidance and recommendation of the SLIC Subcommittee on Finance & Publications.

2. If State funds are used to finance the publication, or if the name of the University is used without a University disclaimer, or if ads are solicited without the use of a University disclaimer, the organization must first seek approval from the Student Life and Interests Committee. Only chartered student organizations may receive such approval.
Present Regulations as on Page 27 of Student Organization Handbook

3. Any registered student organization which desires to prepare and distribute a newsletter or similar publication to its members only, may do so without registering said newsletter as a publication, providing that other regulations concerning publications listed in this section are followed. It is understood that this kind of publication will not solicit any advertising.

4. Copies of all student publications are to be filed with the Student Life and Interests Committee immediately on publication.

5. Any campus group, whether registered or not, in violation of these policies is liable to a penalty as may be determined by the Student Court.

Revisions as Proposed by SLIC

3. Copies of all student publications financed with state funding and/or approved by SLIC must be filed with the Student Life and Interests Committee immediately on publication.

4. Any campus group or individual in violation of these policies is liable to a penalty as may be determined by the Student Court.
