Annual Report of the Academic Program and Curriculum Committee

1972-73

The Academic Program and Curriculum Committee met regularly during the 1972-1973 academic year on the second Thursday of each month. Special meetings were held when needed. Four subcommittees (Arts and Humanities, Social Sciences, Natural Sciences, and Professions) reviewed all new course proposals submitted by the curriculum committees of the separate schools and colleges of UWM. The Academic Program and Curriculum Committee has been especially concerned with the "overlapping" or duplication of courses. Recommendations on such cases to the deans and curriculum committees of the schools and colleges involved will be completed by late spring. The Academic Program and Curriculum Committee also examined twelve new undergraduate programs submitted as part of UWM's ten-year curriculum plan for 1974-1984. The committee's recommendations were sent to the Vice-Chancellor in April, 1973. The committee's final major deliberations concern the new credit course, Learning Skills 101, proposed by the Department of Learning Skills.
