Spend the summer reading the most entertaining and enduring graphic novels from around the world. From superhero adventures and intellectual mysteries to traumatic history and modern quests for identity, these texts combine word and image to give us the most innovative new stories of our generation. Readings will tentatively include Frank Miller’s Batman, Art Spiegelman’s Holocaust-themed Maus, Marjane Satrapi’s Persepolis, Osamu Tezuka’s Japanese manga Metropolis, Alan Moore’s dystopic V for Vendetta, and more.
